Field on the NOE/Issue	Claims Processing System	Corrections and Outcomes
HIC (Required) NOE returned to provider for an invalid HIC number	When an invalid Medicare Health Insurance Claim Number (HICN) is entered on the Notice of Election (NOE), the Medicare claims processing system will return the NOE to the provider as not processable.	Action: The provider should submit a new NOE as soon as it is discovered that the HIC number is incorrect to prevent an untimely filed NOE. A new NOE will process and finalize with the corrected information and the incorrect NOE will be returned to provider. Therefore, the provider should immediately submit a new NOE with the corrected HICN to prevent an untimely NOE. Outcome: An untimely NOE due to an incorrectly reported HICN will not meet for an exceptional circumstance. This issue is not caused by a claims processing delay, but is the result of incorrect information entered into the system.
HIC (Required) Received the incorrect HIC number from the beneficiary/caregivers	When an invalid Medicare Health Insurance Claim Number (HICN) is entered on the Notice of Election (NOE), the Medicare claims processing system will return the claim to the provider as not processable.	Action: It is the responsibility of each hospice to verify the information received and check eligibility of the patient. A new NOE should be submitted as soon as it is discovered that the HIC number submitted on the NOE is in error. If a new NOE is submitted within the five day timely filing this will prevent an untimely filed NOE. The NOE with the incorrect information should return to the provider. Outcome: An exceptional circumstance will not be granted when the provider has entered incorrect information.

Notice of Election (NOE) Timely Filing and Exceptional Circumstance Guidelines

HIC (Required) Unable to obtain Medicare information from beneficiary, family or caregivers		Action: The hospice provider can utilize the Fiscal Intermediary Standard System (FISS)/Direct data entry (DDE) system to search for beneficiary information and eligibility. The provider should take all measures necessary to obtain the beneficiary's Medicare information. You may want to reach out to the referral source for additional information to assist with obtaining the information. Since verifying the eligibility is part of the requirement, the hospice should not be admitting the patient to the Medicare Hospice Benefit until all required information is received. Outcome: A late filed NOE exceptional circumstance will not be granted due to the provider not receiving information from the beneficiary and/or family.
Type of bill (TOB) The TOB was entered incorrectly. Example a 81A was entered and should have been 82A	The system will accept the NOE with an incorrect TOB when the second digit in the number is a 1 or 2. For example TOB 81A or 82A	Action: If the type of bill (TOB) is incorrect the NOE does not and should not be cancelled and resubmitted. The first claim must have the correct TOB. For example an 81A is submitted and it should have been an 82A, the claim can be submitted as 82X. Outcome: A late filed NOE exceptional circumstance will not be granted when the provider cancels an NOE that was accepted by the system timely, and the provider cancelled the NOE to correct the 2nd digit code on the TOB.

National Provider Identifier (NPI) Hospice Provider NPI is incorrectly entered	The Medicare claims processing system will not allow the NOE to be filed until a valid NPI number is entered.	Action: Correct the NPI or the system will not allow you to file the NOE. Outcome: An exceptional circumstance will not be granted when the provider has entered incorrect information.
Hospice National Provider Identifier (NPI) Entered the wrong hospice NPI # from the same group	The Medicare claims processing system will process a NOE with a valid NPI.	Action: The NOE must be cancelled and resubmitted with the correct NPI for the hospice agency providing the service. Outcome: An exceptional circumstance will not be granted when the provider has entered incorrect information.
STMT Dates (from) Required Incorrect information entered	An NOE with incorrect statement dates may return to the provider or may process and finalize.	Action: If the NOE processes and finalizes the NOE will need to be cancelled and resubmitted. If the NOE returns to the provider the NOE will need to be corrected and resubmitted. Outcome: If the original NOE was submitted timely and the Medicare claims processing system returned the NOE outside a time frame that it was feasible for the provider to correct and re-submit the NOE within five days to meet timeliness or the NOE processes and finalizes the provider will need to cancel the NOE and resubmit. Either circumstance may meet for an exceptional circumstance if: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The original NOE was submitted timely

Beneficiary last name The beneficiaries last name is miss-spelled	The Medicare system will check the beneficiary's last name up to eight characters. If the beneficiary's last name is not spelled correctly the Medicare claims processing system will return the NOE to the provider.	Action: A new NOE should be submitted immediately with the corrected last name to prevent an untimely filed NOE. Outcome: A new NOE will process and finalize with the corrected information and the incorrect NOE should be returned to provider. This issue is not caused by a claims processing delay, but is the result of incorrect information entered into the system. There may be rare instances when the incorrect NOE does not return to the provider and finalizes

Date of birth Entered incorrectly on the NOE	The Medicare system will check the beneficiary's date of birth and match it to the first six letters of the last name and first initial of the first name. If an incorrect date of birth is reported on the NOE, the Medicare claims processing system will return the NOE to the provider.	Action: A new NOE should be submitted immediately with the correct beneficiary's date of birth to prevent an untimely filed NOE. Outcome: An exceptional circumstance will not be granted when the date of birth is incorrectly entered by the provider. Providers can submit a new NOE with the correct date of birth while the original NOE with the incorrect date of birth is processing. The corrected NOE should process and finalize and the NOE with the incorrect date of birth should return to provider.
Date of birth Incorrect information was received	The Medicare system will check the beneficiary's date of birth and match it to the first six letters of the last name and first initial of the first name. If an incorrect date of birth is reported on the NOE, the Medicare claims processing system will return the NOE to the provider	Action: It is the responsibility of the hospice provider to validate the beneficiaries Medicare information. The provider should be checking FISS/DDE to verify coverage and eligibility. Outcome: Entering incorrect information that has not been verified will not meet for an exceptional circumstance for a late filed NOE. There may be other times rare instances where the

Common Scenarios Regarding an Untimely Filed Notice of Election (NOE) and exceptional circumstances

ISSUE: Fiscal Intermediary Standard System (FISS) Beneficiary File Limitations

When an NOE is submitted with a correct HIC, but the name, gender or date of birth are incorrect, and it is the first submission of any type of notification or claim for that beneficiary, the NOE will cycle through CWF before it returns to provider (RTP's). Since this is the first submission to the Medicare claims processing system, the FISS beneficiary file will update with the incorrect information from the NOE. In these instances, the FISS beneficiary file has to be manually updated by the MAC.

Action:

When the initial NOE is RTP'd, before submitting a new NOE, the provider should first check the FISS beneficiary file in DDE, inquiries menu option 10 to determine if the FISS file needs to be updated. If the FISS file needs to be updated, the provider should contact their MAC to request that the record be updated and submit the new NOE within 2-business days of the date that the file was corrected.

Outcome:

An exceptional circumstance will be granted in the case where the timeliness of a timely filed NOE is affected by the delay in updating the FISS beneficiary file. If the initial NOE was submitted timely and the Medicare claims processing system returned the NOE outside a time frame that was feasible for the provider to correct and re-submit the NOE within five days to meet timeliness this may meet for an exceptional circumstance if:

Notice of Election (NOE) Timely Filing and Exceptional Circumstance Guidelines

1. The initial NOE was submitted timely
2. The NOE was returned for correction outside the time limit to submit a new NOE
3. The request to the MAC to update the FISS beneficiary file was made within two business days of the date the initial NOE RTP; and
4. The new NOE was submitted within two business days of the date the FISS beneficiary file was updated.

ISSUE: Medicare Claims Processing System Limitations

When a beneficiary is discharged from the Medicare hospice benefit, the beneficiary immediately resumes the Medicare coverage that had previously been waived by the hospice election. If a hospice beneficiary is discharged alive or revokes the hospice benefit, the hospice shall submit a Notice of Termination (NOTR) within five calendar days of the discharge or revocation, unless a final claim has been submitted. There may be instances where the beneficiary revokes or is discharged from the hospice benefit and then re-elects the hospice benefit in a short period of time. Due to Medicare claims processing system limitations there may be times when the notice of election (NOE) is untimely and meets for an exceptional circumstance.

Action:

A notice of termination/revocation (NOTR) or a final claim must be filed within five days of the date of discharge. A notice of election (NOE) must be filed within five calendar days of the admission although it may return-to-provider (RTP) due to an open election period that has not yet been closed. Submitting an NOE even though it will RTP creates a paper trail that shows you attempted to submit the NOE timely, and provides evidence for claims processors to base their decision. Once the NOTR has finalized, you may resubmit your NOE. The NOE, if untimely, will require that you submit the claim with an exceptional circumstance.

Notice of Election (NOE) Timely Filing and Exceptional Circumstance Guidelines

Outcome:

An exceptional circumstance will be granted in the case where the timeliness of a timely filed NOE is affected by the processing delays of a timely filed NOTR or a final claim. If the re-admission NOE was submitted timely and the Medicare claims processing system returned the NOE outside a time frame that was feasible for the provider to correct and re-submit the NOE within five days to meet timeliness this may meet for an exceptional circumstance if:

1. The re-admission NOE was submitted timely
2. The NOE was returned for an open election
3. A timely filed NOTR or final claim prevented the NOE from processing timely.

An exceptional circumstance will not be granted if the provider fails to submit the NOTR or final claim timely, and the processing cause's delays in submitting an NOE. A timely-filed NOTR is a NOTR that is submitted to and accepted by the Medicare contractor within 5 calendar days after the effective date of discharge or revocation.

ISSUE: Unable to timely file an NOTR due to an open election

There is one particular Medicare claims processing issue that prevents an NOTR from being submitted timely. When the beneficiary is in an open election period, an NOTR will RTP due to the benefit period not being established in the Medicare claims processing system. For example: If the beneficiary's benefit period ends on February 17th. The Medicare claims processing system will not update until the February claim is submitted to show the physician certification and open the next benefit period which will start on February 18th. Therefore, if the beneficiary revokes or discharges from February 18th through the end of February you will not be able to submit an NOTR.

Action: The revocation or discharge occurs in the same month

A final claim for February will need to be submitted into the system as quickly as possible to establish and close the next benefit period. For example: If the beneficiary's last day of a benefit period is on February 17th and the beneficiary revokes the benefit on February 18th. You will need to submit your final claim for February as soon as possible to open and close the benefit period. Once the claim has finalized promptly submit the NOE.

Action: The revocation or discharge spans across two months

A claim will need to be submitted into the system as quickly as possible to establish the next benefit period. For example: The beneficiary's benefit period ends on February 17th and the beneficiary revokes the benefit on March 4th. The February claim will need to be submitted as quickly as possible to establish the next benefit period that will start on February 18th. Once the benefit period has been established by submitting the February claim, you may either submit an NOTR or a final claim for March to terminate the election benefit period. Note: Providers should not delay submitting claims when the only reason is due to awaiting information related to data collection only items (e.g., drugs). When all other requirements for submission are met, the provider should submit the claim and adjust it later when they have the data to add to the claim. This will allow the benefit periods to be updated so that the new NOE can be resubmitted.

Outcome:

An exceptional circumstance may be granted when a notice of election (NOE) was filed timely, but RTP due to an open election period in the system that prevents an NOTR from being filed timely.

If sequential billing requirements were followed and the NOE finalizes and posts before the NOTR or final claim are finalized in the system, the NOE will have to be canceled and resubmitted. An exceptional circumstance may be granted if:

1. The initial NOE was submitted timely and in sequence
2. The NOE was canceled within two business days of the date it was posted to the CWF; and
3. The new NOE was resubmitted within two business days of the date the final claim or NOTR finalized
